- The Housing (Right of First Refusal)(Wales) Regulations 2005 under Standing Order 24.27 (iv)

These Regulations are required to enable social landlords to insert a covenant in Right to Buy transfer documents giving them priority in repurchasing properties so that they may be let to other people in housing need. The right will exist for ten years following the original purchase. If the former landlord does not wish to repurchase, it may nominate another registered social landlord (e.g. a housing association) to consider the matter. The Regulations allow eight weeks for this process to ensure that the owner is not delayed unreasonably in disposing of the property

- The Housing (Right to Buy)(Information to Secure Tenants)(Wales) Order 2005 under Standing Order 24.27(iv)

This Order is intended to provide tenants, at an early stage, with all the information necessary to decide whether they wish to apply for the Right to Buy. Concern has been raised (by Shelter and others) that some purchasers have found themselves in financial difficulties (e.g. where purchasers of leasehold flats have to pay significant service charges for major repairs to the block). The 2004 Act requires landlords to provide tenants with more information on the Right to Buy and responsibilities of home ownership. The proposed Order lists the types of information and when it should be provided.

- Cynnig i gymeradwyo The Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (Commencement no.4 and Consequential and Transitional Provisions) (Wales) Order 2005 (15 munud)

The proposed Commencement Order brings the remaining provisions of Part 6 of the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 into force. Part 6 of the 2004 Act applies only in relation to Wales, and sections 61 to 78 of Part 6 establish a system of local development plans (LDPs) in place of current unitary development plans (UDPs) required under Chapter 1 of Part II of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990. Statutory development plans set out the local planning authority's policies and proposals for the development and use of land in its area; they guide and inform the day to day decisions as to whether or not planning permission should be granted.

- Cynnig I gymeradwyo The Town and Country Planning (Local Development Plan) (Wales) Regulations 2005(15 munud)

The proposed Regulations provide for those matters that will be further regulated in relation to the preparation and content of local development plans under the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (Part 6, sections 61-78). Statutory development plans set out the local planning authority's policies and proposals for the development and use of land in its area; they guide and inform the day to day decisions as to whether or not planning permission should be granted.

This Order will commence the majority of the provisions of the Public Services Ombudsman (Wales) Act 2005 from 12 October 2005 and 1 April 2006 to ensure that functions of the existing public sector ombudsmen in Wales will be brought together under the Public Services Ombudsman for Wales from 1 April 2006. At present, the offices of the existing public sector ombudsmen in Wales are held by the same individual, but they operate under different regimes set up under different pieces of legislation. Once the 2005 Act is implemented, as a result of this Order, there will be one Public Services Ombudsman for Wales (PSOW), operating one system for dealing with complaints of maladministration or service failure relating to the actions of most public bodies working in Wales. The PSOW will also deal with complaints relating to the conduct of local government members and employees, under the ethical framework provisions in Part 3 of the Local Government Act 2000.

- The Education (Assisted Places) (Incidental Expenses) (Amendment) (Wales) Regulations 2005

The Assisted Places Scheme was established in 1980 and allowed the government to assist parents with the cost of fees at independent schools on a means-tested basis. The scheme was abolished in 1997, but pupils were able to complete the specific phase of education.

The Education (Schools) Act 1997, provides for the progressive phasing out of the Assisted Places Scheme (APS) and imposes a duty on the National Assembly for Wales to continue to remit the whole or part of the tuition fees and other incidental expenses which parents are required to meet in connection with their child's participation in the APS.

These Regulations uplift by 2.1% (in line with inflation October 2004 Retail Price Index), the tables used to calculate parents' eligibility to receive uniform grant and travel grant available under the scheme during the academic year 2005/06.

- The Food Labelling (Amendment)(Wales)(No2)Regulations 2005

These Regulations will provide for the administration and enforcement (including penalties and offences), of Commission Directive 2005/26/EC of 21 March 2005, establishing a list of food ingredients or substances provisionally excluded from Annex IIIa of Directive 2000/13/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council. This Directive provides provisional exemptions for ingredients derived from allergens that are no longer allergenic, from the requirement to be listed as allergens on food labels. Thus, avoiding over labelling and reducing consumer choice.

Annex IIIa of Directive 2000/13/EC establishes a list of food ingredients to be indicated on the label as they are likely to cause adverse reactions in susceptible individuals

The Assisted Places Scheme was established in 1980 and allowed the government to assist parents with the cost of fees at independent schools on a means-tested basis. The scheme was abolished in 1997, but pupils were able to complete the specific phase of education.

The Education (Schools) Act 1997, provides for the progressive phasing out of the Assisted Places Scheme (APS) and imposes a duty on the National Assembly for Wales to continue to remit the whole or part of the tuition fees and other incidental expenses (e. g. uniform and travel grants), which parents are required to meet in connection with their child's participation in the APS.

These Regulations uplift by 2.1% (in line with inflation October 2004 Retail; Price Index) the tables used to calculate the amount that parents of children continuing to hold assisted places at former participating independent schools have to contribute to tuition fees during the academic year 2005/2006, having regard to their relevant income. The Regulations also uprate by 2.1% the dependants allowance (i.e. the amount by which the parents relevant income is reduced in order to calculate their contribution to the place taken up by the pupil in the Assisted Places Scheme. For the 2005/2006 school year, the dependants allowance has been uplifted from £1,540 to £1,575.
