Dear James,

Thank you for your recent questions asking me to provide an update on how the Welsh Government is fulfilling the recommendations of the Sexual Health Review 2017/2018.

The sexual health landscape has changed considerably since Public Health Wales published the Sexual Health Review 2017/2018. Many of the recommendations in the review were implemented before the pandemic, however, other recommendations have been superseded by post-pandemic initiatives and commitments such as the HIV Action Plan for Wales 2023-26 and the move to online sexual health testing in 2020 which has resulted in more people in Wales being diagnosed and treated for sexually transmitted infections than ever before. The Sexual Health Programme Board, chaired by Welsh Government, continues to meet quarterly and the list of sexual health priorities in Wales is continually reviewed.

Yours sincerely
