Answer received for publication on 09 June 2011

The Minister for Education and Skills (Leighton Andrews): Data on a consistent basis that allows analysis by qualification type, subject and vocational/non-vocational breakdown has only recently been available: for GCSEs and DiDAs for the last three years and for NVQ and BTEC qualifications for the last two years.

The attached spreadsheet shows the number of GCSE Short Course, GCSE Full Course, GCSE Double Award and DiDA examination entries from 2008 to 2010. The spreadsheet also shows the number of NVQ and BTEC awards for 2009 and 2010.

The tables show, for pupils of any age in school, the number of examination entries/awards by subject area and grade/level. The subject area is defined by the Sector Skills Council.
