Dear Andrew

With regards to the written question tabled on 13 December 2023 relating to the professional learning area on Hwb.

I can confirm there were no costs incurred with the creation of the professional learning area on the Hwb website. There are also no hosting costs anticipated with the digital service as the professional area leverages the wider benefits of the Hwb platform.

To help achieve the ambitions for a national approach to professional learning and meet the evolving needs of our users, a dedicated secondee has been appointed, along with the establishment of a practitioner task and finish group, to ensure that the new area meets the evolving needs of the education workforce. The projected costs associated to the remuneration of the secondee, and members of the task and finish group is ca. £228,000 over the next two years.

Yours sincerely,

Jeremy Miles AS/MS
